Nothing is worse as a reviewer than to be faced with a remarkable recording that is impossible to describe in words without writing volumes. Marjorie de Muynck's Vibrational Healing Music is one of those CDs. Field recordings of crickets, cicadas, honeybees, hummingbirds, and a few other creatures are combined with harmonica, Dobro, and pedal steel guitar (the latter two played by Auge Hayes, while the first is played by de Muynck herself). The album "celebrates the musical vibrations, rhythms, and harmonies of the natural world." The ultra-pleasing drones on this recording yield something mesmerizing and haunting yet ultimately peaceful.
